SAMPLE EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

Student Policy Handbook

Academic Year: 2026–2027

Document Version: 1.0

Effective Date: 01 June 2026

Institution: Sample Educational Institution

Location: Hyderabad, Telangana, India

This handbook explains the academic rules, student responsibilities, campus facilities, and support procedures followed by the institution. Students are expected to read and follow the policies described in this document.

Important: This is a fictional sample policy document created for educational purposes and RAG application development. It is not an official policy of any real school, college, or university.

1. Institution Overview

- The institution provides undergraduate and postgraduate education, academic mentoring, practical laboratory training, career guidance, and student development activities.
- The academic year is divided into semesters. Each semester includes classroom instruction, practical sessions, assessments, and examinations.
- Students must follow the latest notices issued by the Academic Office and the institution's official communication channels.

2. Academic Schedule and Working Hours

- Regular academic activities are generally conducted Monday to Saturday, according to the published timetable.
- Typical teaching hours are 9:00 AM to 4:00 PM. The exact schedule may vary by programme, semester, laboratory, or examination timetable.
- Students must attend classes, practical sessions, workshops, and other activities included in their approved timetable.
- Any change to class timings or academic schedules will be communicated through the official student portal or notice board.

3. Student Attendance Policy

- Students are expected to maintain at least 75% attendance in each course, unless a higher requirement is prescribed by the relevant programme or applicable academic regulations.
- Attendance is recorded by the faculty member or through the institution's attendance management system.
- Students must attend lectures, tutorials, laboratory sessions, seminars, and other compulsory academic activities.
- Late arrival may be recorded as late attendance or absence according to the department's procedure.
- Students who fall below the required attendance level may be restricted from appearing for the relevant examination, subject to applicable regulations and the institution's approved condonation process.
- Students should regularly check their attendance records and report any recording error to the course instructor or Academic Office promptly.

4. Leave and Absence Policy

- Students who need to be absent should submit a leave request to their class advisor or department through the prescribed process.
- Planned leave should be requested in advance whenever possible.
- In case of illness or an emergency, the student or guardian should inform the class advisor as soon as reasonably possible.
- Supporting documents, such as a medical certificate, may be requested for extended illness or repeated absence.
- Approval of leave does not automatically exempt a student from attendance requirements, assignments, laboratory work, or examinations.
- Students are responsible for completing missed lessons, notes, practical work, and assessments.

5. Examination and Assessment Policy

- Students must register for examinations within the dates announced by the Examination Office.
- Assessment may include internal tests, assignments, quizzes, presentations, laboratory evaluations, projects, and end-semester examinations.

- Students must carry a valid institution identity card and examination hall ticket when required.
- Students must arrive at the examination venue before the reporting time and follow the instructions of invigilators.
- Mobile phones, smart watches, unauthorized notes, and other prohibited materials must not be brought into the examination hall.
- Requests for revaluation, recounting, or access to evaluated answer scripts must be submitted within the officially announced deadline.
- Examination results are published through the official student portal or other authorized communication channel.

6. Assignment, Project, and Laboratory Policy

- Assignments and projects must be submitted by the deadline and in the format specified by the course instructor.
- Students must submit original work and clearly acknowledge sources, references, datasets, and external assistance.
- Copying another student's work, submitting purchased work, or misrepresenting another person's work as one's own is prohibited.
- Late submissions may receive a penalty or may not be accepted, according to the course rules communicated in advance.
- Students must follow laboratory safety instructions, handle equipment carefully, and report damaged or malfunctioning equipment immediately.
- Project teams must maintain records of individual contributions and provide progress updates when requested by the supervisor.

7. Grading and Academic Progression

- Course grades are determined using the assessment components and weightages published in the course outline or academic regulations.
- Students must satisfy the minimum passing requirements prescribed for each course and programme.
- Students who fail a course may be eligible for a supplementary, repeat, or backlog examination according to the applicable academic regulations.
- Promotion to the next semester or academic year is governed by the institution's programme-specific progression rules.
- Students may contact the course instructor, faculty advisor, or Academic Office for clarification about marks, grades, or academic progression.

8. Fee Payment and Refund Policy

- Tuition fees and other approved charges must be paid by the due dates communicated by the Accounts Office.
- Students should use only institution-approved payment methods and retain transaction receipts.
- Late payment may result in a reminder, late fee, or restriction on selected administrative services, where permitted by institutional rules.
- Scholarship or financial-aid applicants remain responsible for following the fee instructions communicated to them until an award is formally confirmed.
- Fee refund requests must be submitted in writing with the required supporting documents. Eligibility and the refund amount will be determined by the institution's published refund schedule and applicable regulations.
- Students should contact the Accounts Office for fee statements, payment confirmation, or refund queries.

9. Library Policy

- Students must use their valid institution identity card to access library services and borrow materials.
- Books and other resources must be returned on or before the due date.
- Overdue materials may attract a fine according to the library's current schedule.
- Students must maintain silence, keep the library clean, and avoid disturbing other users.
- Library books, journals, computers, and furniture must be handled carefully. Loss or damage must be reported and may require replacement or payment under library rules.
- Borrowing limits and loan periods are communicated by the Library Office.

10. Laboratory, Computer, and Campus Facilities

- Students may use laboratories and computing facilities only during authorized hours or under staff supervision where required.
- Login credentials must not be shared. Students must not access another person's account or attempt to bypass security controls.
- Installing unauthorized software, changing system configurations, or accessing prohibited content on institution equipment is not allowed.
- Food and drinks are not permitted in laboratories unless specifically authorized.
- Students must report safety hazards, equipment faults, or suspected data-security incidents to the responsible staff member.
- Sports, transport, hostel, and other campus facilities are governed by their respective rules and notices.

11. Student Code of Conduct and Discipline

- Students must treat classmates, faculty, staff, visitors, and campus personnel with respect.
- Ragging, bullying, harassment, discrimination, threats, violence, and deliberate disruption of academic activities are prohibited.
- Students must not damage institutional property or misuse campus facilities.
- Students must follow reasonable instructions issued by authorized faculty and administrative staff.
- Unauthorized recording, photography, or sharing of private information is not permitted where it violates institutional rules or another person's privacy.
- Alleged misconduct may be referred to the appropriate disciplinary committee. Students will be informed of the applicable procedure and may be asked to provide an explanation.

12. Scholarships and Student Support

- Eligible students may apply for scholarships, fee assistance, or other support schemes announced by the institution or government authorities.
- Students must submit accurate information and genuine supporting documents within the announced application period.
- Scholarship approval, continuation, and renewal are subject to the scheme's eligibility conditions and verification process.
- Academic mentoring, counselling referrals, accessibility support, and student-welfare services may be available through designated offices.
- Students seeking support should contact their faculty advisor, Student Welfare Office, or the relevant programme coordinator.

13. Holidays and Academic Calendar

- The institution publishes an academic calendar showing semester dates, working days, examination periods, holidays, and major academic events.
- Public holidays and institution-declared holidays are observed according to the published calendar.
- Changes to holidays, working days, or examination dates may be announced through official notices.
- Students are responsible for checking the latest academic calendar and department announcements.

14. Placement, Internship, and Career Services

- Placement and internship opportunities are communicated through the Career Development or Training and Placement Office.
- Students must meet the eligibility criteria announced for each opportunity, which may include academic performance, attendance, skills, and programme requirements.
- Students must provide accurate resumes, academic records, and application details.
- Students attending interviews, assessments, internships, or placement drives must follow the instructions and professional-conduct requirements communicated by the organizing office.
- Selection decisions are made by the recruiting organization. The institution does not guarantee employment or internship selection.
- Students should inform the Placement Office if they accept an offer or withdraw from a registered recruitment process.

15. Student Records, Privacy, and IT Security

- Students must keep their contact details and other required records accurate and up to date.
- Student portal credentials and passwords must be kept confidential and must not be shared with others.
- Students must not attempt unauthorized access to institutional systems, networks, records, or other users' accounts.
- Personal information should be submitted only through official institutional channels.
- Suspected account compromise, phishing messages, data loss, or security incidents should be reported promptly to IT Support.
- Access to student information is managed by authorized institutional personnel for legitimate academic and administrative purposes, subject to applicable rules.

16. Grievance Redressal and Student Complaints

- Students may raise academic, administrative, facility-related, or conduct-related concerns through their class advisor, Head of Department, Student Welfare Office, or the designated grievance channel.
- Complaints should include a clear description of the issue, relevant dates, and supporting information where available.
- Students should use respectful language and provide accurate information during the grievance process.
- Urgent safety concerns should be reported immediately to campus security or the responsible institutional authority.
- The institution will review complaints through the appropriate process and communicate the next steps where possible.
